

TEEMER DEFEATS HANLAN.

AMERICA ON TORONTO BAY.

Toronto, Aug. 13.—When the defeat of in the race here this afternoon, Mrs. Haslan, the pretty little wife of Ned Haslan, who watched the contest from the referee's boat burst into tears and cried very bitterly. She had seen her husband row many a race before, in which he had come out an easy winner, and in which his manner was such as it had been throughout the last half of this race, and she confidently expected until the race was more than two-thirds over that he would win it. After Mrs. Haslan, probably none felt so badly teated champion himself, as the backers of Teemer, who could have got without any difficulty $50,000 of Canadian money bet on Hanlan if they had been willing to bet even. They were afraid of their man, however, and would not take up bets unless they got odds of 2 to 1 on Teemer. Hanlan's friends would not bet on this basis and there was very little money up on the event.

Teemer, keen of Boston and others, who refused even bets on the race, and demanded big odds before they would bet of their man.

Hamilton Busby of Turf, Field and Farm of New York city was referee of the race. Joseph Rogers was time keeper. Pete Duryea of New York acted as judge for Teemer, and John Davis of Windsor acted as judge for Hanlan.

Hanlan is most broken up by the result of the race, and regrets now that he used his new Blakebe block which he got from Boston a few days ago instead of the one he rowed in at

VICTIMS OF A CLAIRVOYANT.
Three colored Women Made Insane by a Silly Story.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Rachel Davis, an aged colored woman, and her two married daughters, Sarah Dilks and Elizabeth Milton both of whom lived with their mother, were sent to the insane department of the almshouse yesterday afternoon, all victims, so it is alleged, of a female clairvoyant Mrs. Wil-was called to see Mrs. Milford, who was ill, and while there informed her that someone had put a spell on her which it was necessary to remove at once. She said that she could break the charm if they would follow her direction, and not mention the matter to any living soul. This they promised to do.

Mrs. Le Dent gave them a lot of herbs and instructed them to make tea of them and drink it three times a day. She rubbed around their necks, and instructed them to grab with both hands close to the chin occasionally and remark, "Jack, get out of my way." Being superstitious, they were willing to do anything she recommended on receiving the information that he promised to follow the directions given by the clairvoyant and take the tea.

After the visits Mrs. Davis and her two daughters, Mary and Abigail, came to see him affected. Leon Davis, a policeman and son of Mr. Davis learned of these facts, and after an investigation called in two physicians, who pronounced them demented, and they were removed to the asylum. Mr. Davis then procured a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Le Dent, and she was subsequently locked up in default of $1,000 on a charge of violating the act relating to fortune telling. She will have a further hearing on Monday.

He Wants his Correspondence Addressed in Care of His Satanic Majesty.

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev., Aug. 13.—James A. Brown, a native of New York city and a noted gambler, committed suicide last night by taking morphine. In his line there were few men on the Pacific coast better known than he. During the flush mining days he was the proprietor of several of the largest games in of recklessness, and at one time was influential in political circles. In character and temperament he might easily have been the original of John Oakhurst. Brown left a long letter in which he says:

Life has now become a burden. I am trying an experiment. If it succeeds, I shall be happy. I have gathered for the time being under each of my chambers the silent halls of death. Address all correspondence in care of his Satanic Majesty. He is a personal friend, and I think the oldest resident of the camp I expect to visit, and therefore can make it pleasant.

giving directions for his funeral he says: Just put me in a box, and as you are about to plant me drop in a small flask of whiskey straight. No ice, unless it is purified.
